DOUG BURNS ELECTED MANAGER OF THE 1929 VARSITY VODVIL

March 2 Tentative Date Set for Annual Production.

Douglas Burns, '29, was appointed Tuesday afternoon by Central Board to manage the 1929 Varsity Vodvil. Three assistant managers will be chosen at the next meeting of the Board. Varsity Vodvil is an annual vaudeville production put on by the various Greek letter organizations on the campus, and managed by the ASUM.

March 2 has been set as a tentative date and tryouts will probably be the latter part of February.

Frank Chichester managed the show last year and Douglas Burns, Dean Gillespie, and Bus Warner were his assistants. Burns was the only one of the three to return this year and was the only person eligible for the job. According to a plan adopted last year the manager must have served as assistant manager for at least one year. Applications for assistant manager must be turned into Central Board by next Tuesday, when the assistants for this year will be chosen.

According to Burns he will start immediately making preparations for the show. Besides his assistants he needs a publicity manager and a stage manager.

HONORARY FRATERNITY UNDER CONSIDERATION

Invitation to Bring Alpha Zeta Pi To Montana Campus Received.

Members of the Foreign Language department are to meet at the home of Mrs. Flora Weisberg next week to discuss the advisability of bringing to the Montana campus Alpha Zeta Pi, honorary Romanic fraternity.

Alpha Zeta Pi is an honorary organization for students of both French and Spanish. Its purpose is to encourage scholarship. The invitation was received from Dr. Ida Bohannon, chairman of extension for the fraternity, of the University of Missouri. Dr. Bohannon is also vice-president of the organization.

The letter from Dr. Bohannon says, in part, "We find that our students desire the honor and are willing to work for it. All other chapters report the same intense interest."

The nearest chapter of Alpha Zeta Pi to this campus is at the University of Wyoming.

MONTANA GRADUATE PUT IN CHARGE OF LIBRARY

Was Former Assistant Cataloguer In Montana University.

Edythe Benbrooks, graduate of the State University of Montana and former assistant cataloguer of the University library, who went to do library work, was in charge of research books and circulation until recently promoted to have charge of the library in the Utah school of mining and engineering.

This school contains the state experiment engineering and metallurgical mining and metallurgical research in connection with the United States Bureau of Mines, consequently the library of which Miss Benbrooks has charge is important for research work.

While at the University of Montana Miss Benbrooks graduated from the business administration school and later took up work in the Library Economy department of the University library.

Word has been received by H. G. Merriam, editor of the Frontier, literary magazine of the Northwest, that the Stewart Commission, an organization working in the interests of Far Western history, wishes to have 250 copies of an article entitled, "The Work of the Stewart Commission," which appeared in the last issue of the magazine.

The article is by Archer B. Hulbert, professor of history at Colorado College, one of the greatest living authorities on the historical West, according to Merriam.

Professor W. P. Clark's Sunday noon class at the University Church will begin a discussion Sunday on military training in schools and colleges.

ZEHNDER SPEAKS AT MEETING OF FORESTRY CLUB

Plans for "Turkey Trot," Proposed Dance, Are Discussed.

J. W. Zehnder, Swiss forester, spoke to members of the Forestry club on "Swiss Forestry and Swiss Forest Education," at the regular meeting of the club Wednesday evening in the Forestry building.

Zehnder, a recent graduate of the Swiss State Forest school at Zurich, has been in America less than a year. While in the United States he has been studying American forest conditions.

He has studied, since his arrival in this country, at Syracuse, the Yale School of Forestry, and for a short time at Harvard. He is at present with the Northern Rocky Mountain Experiment station which has offices in Missoula. The station is located in the Priest river, Idaho, country.

Preceding the talk by Zehnder, members of the club held a short business session at which plans for the coming "Turkey Trot" were discussed. This is to be an informal dance at which square and circle dances will be featured. The dance will be held in the Women's gymnasium Friday, Nov. 30.

Plans for the Annual Forestry ball, which is one of the biggest all-University functions of the year, are rapidly rounding into shape, according to Howard Dix, general chairman of the dance this year.

Selections by the Forestry chorus were also a feature of the meeting.

After the meeting, members of the club sat for the club picture which is to appear in the 1929 Sentinel. More than 80 members of the club were present.

COLLEGE STOCK CO. BREAKS UP

Charles H. Dill, Former Student, Gets Part In New York.

Word has been received from San Antonio, Texas, that the first tour of the "College Players," a stock company formed by four Montana boys who left Missoula last summer to start a repertory company in the Southwest, has been completed. The cast, which was under the direction of Carl Glick, former director of dramatics here, has disbanded for the time being.

Delos Thorson, '29, is returning to Missoula to resume his work in the University. Harry Hooser, '28, and Rowe Morrell, '31, are going to Denver. Charles H. Dill, Jr., has left New Orleans by boat for New York City, where he has a dramatic opening.

While on the tour the "College Players" did a one-act sketch and two acts of vaudeville, and were booked in the best houses in the Southern part of Texas.

"The Curse of Rum," With Original Cast, to Be At Shack Tomorrow

Freaks, Crazy House, Morgue, Baby Show, Booths, Games, Eats Are Only Some of Attractions at "The Hell Box."

CURSES !!! There are curses and curses but the greatest of all curses is the curse of rum. For the first time the great moral play "The Curse of Rum" will be shown to students, faculty and townspeople of Missoula. This play—which is in two acts—is being given by the ORIGINAL cast with specially arranged music and will be presented for the first time in America at the Journalism Shack, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Only two performances will be given at 8 and 9 o'clock. The talented characters in this stupendous production have been carefully selected for the parts which follow:

The Cast

George B. Everlit—who, to his weakness for alcohol, adds a vocal infirmity—Angina Pectoris Everlit—who, accused under RUM—is blessed with:

Piggly and Wiggly—Romulus and Remus were nothing unto these.

MISTER Bolivar—artist extraordinaire in lilkours.

Joel Blough—whose Titian beauty and three chickens (note) have been done in by a still traveling, traveling salesman—

W. Fairclough—Greene—Smythe—whose strong point is dignity and weak one—dry Martinis.

William Jennings, Dr. Brian torn by dissent over money—business and madman booziness and Clarence Barrow.

(note)—The chickens names were Patience, Prudence and Pertinacity.

Children Not Admitted Due to the delicacy of the theme diligently to make the show a big success.

That two freshman girls, whose names were withheld by the yielding Committee Hi-Jinx, are taking the leading roles. That they have the old fighting spirit and are doing their utmost to make the 1928-29 Hi-Jinx one which the men will remember, especially those desperate hold-ups.

And most important of all, that the censure committee has sat, and has judged, and has left the manuscript in its original form. Although there was much controversy when some of the members of that committee were mentioned, it was overruled by the other members. That the censure committee is composed of Edward Chimes, Gordon Rogellen, James Morrow, Cloyse Overturn, Tom Davis, Helen Castle, Jesse Camborn, Billie Kester, Sallie MacLay, Mary Brennan, and Margaret Johnson, members of Silent Sentinel and Mortar Board, senior honorary organizations.

Demand Manuscript. Said the most desperate, "WE represent the great and noble order of EDS, at the State University of Montana, and WE demand of you, the Committee Hi-Jinx, a copy of the mighty weapon of the women, the Hi-Jinx manuscript."

Rallying their scattered forces, the poor, frightened little co-eds, the Committee Hi-Jinx, prepared to uphold their trust with their lives, and refused to surrender their precious manuscript. The hold-ups became desperate. They sank to the dispiriting depth of begging to know if they, personally, were mentioned. Ah-h! yes they disclosed their identity. But the Committee Hi-Jinx remained firm.

As a last resort, the bandits threatened the Committee Hi-Jinx with torture. It was too much. What co-ed will take the chance of losing her beauty? A few facts were wrested from the unyielding females. As gleaned by those EDS, they follow:

That 200 girls are on the cast of Hi-Jinx, the annual razz fest to be staged by members of AWS on Dec. 15.

That 50 more girls compose the production staff, and are working children under five will not be admitted. Children in arms must have a ticket.

All freaks heretofore unexposed by Campus Rakings or Hi-Jinx have been accumulated and assembled in one place—where other freaks may come and view them.

Tripping through the Crazy house one stumbles upon some of the obstacles in this walk of life. From there to the "Morgue" is but a stagger—rest your nerves and gaze on the contents thereof.

Have you a little Baby in your home? If not (or if so)—come to the Baby show, look them over and select that which represents your ideal—the winning baby will be spanked at the riotous dance which will be held in the R. O. T. C. auditorium immediately after the second and last performance of the "Curse of Rum."

For the sportsman there is the Fish pond where varied, innumerable practical and impractical gifts will be acquired by scooping fish from a watery sea with a scooper.

Fortunes Told

Madame GeBoozelm, a know-it-all, of the campus, than whom no one knows more about campus affairs and their affairs will gaze on the past, present and future for a paltry sum, and reveal what you will or will not have revealed.

And besides all this—buy a hot-dog, drink a stein of cider (?!), send a telegram to your best friend, dance a dance to the strains of a melodious orchestra, play house-bousie and win some presents to send the family for Christmas—all this and more may be accomplished at HELL BOX—the biggest carnival event of the year, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Shack.

OLD BOOKS FIND NEW HOMES IN U. OF M. LIBRARY

Volumes Found in Attic in South by H. A. Davee Of Geraldine, Mont.

Several old books which have been received by Gertrude Buckhouse, University librarian, are to be given a home among new books on clean shelves.

Old and musty, these books have suffered for the past century or more from lying among the debris of southern attics. Their paper bindings are weather-marked and torn. Their inner pages are browned and aged from drops of rain which have trickled through the attic roofs.

H. A. Davee, superintendent of the public schools of Geraldine, Montana, recently sent the six volumes to the librarian. Mr. Davee found the books in their former abode, the southern attics. Here they had been discarded, but thinking that they might be of some use, Mr. Davee sent them to the University with the following letter:

"I am sending a few old books which I picked up in some attics in the south. If you have a place in the library for them, you may accept them with my compliments."

The books are: "History of Vermont," by Samuel Williams, L. L. D., and printed at Walpole, New Hampshire in 1794; "Lives of the Signers to the Declaration of Independence," by the Rev. Charles A. Goodrich, published in 1841; "Ancient History of Egyptians," Carthaginiens, Macedonians and Grecians," by Charles Rollin, translated from the French and published in 1836.

QUADRONS MEET AT K. D. HOUSE

Committee Appointed to Chose Senior Garb.

Quadrans, social organization of all senior women, met Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Kappa Delta house.

Marjorie Walker, Marion Hart, and Marian Hall are to look for ideas concerning a distinctive garb for senior women and present their report at the December meeting of Quadrans. It was voted that there will be no charge of fifty cents for dues this year, and any unusual expenditure will be taken care of by special assessment. It was also decided that the sororities will entertain Quadrans according to an alphabetical list which has been made. The December meeting will be held at the Alpha Chi Omega house.

Refreshments were served at the close of the business meeting.

R. O. HOFFMAN ENROLLED AT SORBONNE IN PARIS

Amy Yeatts, instructor in the Foreign Language department, has received a letter from Professor R. O. Hoffman, who is now attending the Sorbonne, in Paris. Professor Hoffman has enrolled in the "Cours de Civilisation."

There are two diplomas offered in this course, after a semester's work and successful examinations. The first is the "Diplome d'Etudes de Civilisation," and the second, "Diplome Supérieur d'Etudes de Civilisation." Mr. Hoffman will work for the latter.

The Hoffmans have lived in Paris since September 27, near the Gardens of Luxembourg and the Sorbonne.

After completing his semester in the Cours de Civilisation, Professor Hoffman expects to enroll in the Cours Publics, in pure literature.

Richard Robinson, '30, member of the frosh football team in '26 and Bear Paw last year, returned this week, from Great Falls, for a short visit.

PLAYERS WILL GIVE COMEDY

All English Company to Present Shaw's Play At Wilma.

Theater goes in Missoula will have only one opportunity of seeing Maurice Colbourne's talented All English company this season. That will be on Nov. 26, at the Wilma Theater.

The company comes straight from London, and has played its way across Canada, where it has been acclaimed by large audiences.

"You Never Can Tell," one of George Bernard Shaw's most hilarious and entertaining comedies, will be presented. The central figure is William the Waiter, one of the greatest characters that the modern stage has known, and will be played by Balliol Holloway, England's leading classical actor. Miss Humphreys will be seen as Gloria, the lovely heroine whose frocks and theories are up to the minute.

Francis Jacobs will be seen as her impoverished lover, introduced to her by the wholly lovable, yet irrepressible Twins, Barbara Wilcox and Peter Spagnoletti. This is not the only introduction in the play, for there is a long lost Father who is reintroduced to his family, causing some very amusing situations which take place at a leading English seaside resort. Mr. Colbourne himself appears as the rather surprising son of old William, the philosophical waiter.

Knowledge Is Power.

“K”NOWLEDGE is power,” said Roger Bacon in his “Meditations” (Serae), and our ancestors thought so well of the idea, that the first “Lorn Books” issued to the scholars were captioned with this quotation. The schoolhouse also bore in some prominent place the same quotation.

It would seem that there is nothing that one learns, however abstract, which is not of some use to him, many study such things as English of the Restoration period and wonder why they came to college but in reality, besides broadening one’s cultural outlook there is also the factor of added means of expression.

The fault with most undergraduates is that they want to grasp immediately at the things they know to be tangible, without pausing to consider that the intermediary road may be crammed with things just as tangible as the ultimate goal.

We dismiss a course in History or Philosophy, as “tommymot” (say for a pre-medical student) and wonder rather superficially why all the chemistry there is cannot be colloquially “shot at us.” Really,

Communication

To the Editor of the Kaimin:

“For the Men and Women of Fraternities and Sororities” is a phrase that appeared in a recent issue of the Kaimin as part of a Homecoming announcement. This, the writer believes, is indicative of the condition existing in regard to all student activities at the University of Montana; a condition not peculiar to only the present year, but one typical of the order of things for some years past. The announcement brought home to the writer the realization that the minority alluded to is not only asked to guarantee the success of such matters, but goes further by practically controlling such things as student offices, managerships, etc. It is equitable that the success of any one project should depend on the support of the fraternities alone?

Figures published by the Registrar’s office show that there are nearly 1500 students regularly enrolled. Of these, approximately 650 are affiliated with a social fraternity or sorority. This means that but 43 per cent of the young men and women attending this state institution belong to such an organization, while 57 per cent are “Barbs,” so called, who have no similar organization. People belonging to Greek letter societies at the University of Montana are in the minority.

With an understanding of the relative numbers of the two classes, let us consider the situation. At the school election last spring all ASUM offices, namely those of president, vice-president, secretary, business manager, Kaimin editor, and yell king, were won by a fraternity man or sorority woman. All AWS offices are held by people coming under the same classification.

Production of Hi-Jinx is being handled almost entirely by sorority women. Varisty Vodyl, characterist of collegiate versatility, only concerns the “Barb” in so far as he is expected to support it by paying 75 cents to see a production composed of acts entered solely by fraternities and sororities. Surely all the talent in this line is not confined to people belonging to these organized groups, and yet the “Barb” does not have the privilege of participating.

In the field of competitive athletics the “Barb” is at a distinct disadvantage as there is a recognized tendency on the part of fraternity men to discredit his efforts and to exaggerate his faults, since he has no organized body behind him. It is evident that employment at the Associated Students’ Store is to be obtained only through fraternal affiliations and the same appears to be true of athletic managerships.

From the facts stated it is apparent that a minority is in complete control of University activities and through no other reason than organization. Why such an unjust distribution of power, as exists, is tolerated by the majority of the students on this campus is beyond the writer’s reason. It cannot be that the “Barbs” are ignorant of the situation as their dissatisfaction with state of affairs is a matter of general knowledge. Surely it is not due to lack of intelligence as published grade-point averages consistently show the “Barbs” to have a higher rank than fraternity men and women. It is equally manifest that it cannot be inefficiency as the few “Barbs” who have run the Greek Blockade and succeeded in obtaining a responsible position have proven as competent as incumbents of the same positions who were members of fraternal organizations.

Why, then, with equal intelligence and ability, do the “Barbs” stand by and allow the “Greeks” to monopolize student activities? What are the “Barbs” here for? Merely to serve as the impotent subjects of the disdain of a self-sufficient smart set? Is it an innate trait of the “species Barbus” to suddenly emerge from four years of obscurity—a college graduate—imbued with a peasant-psychology as pervasive as that of any serf of feudal times? If the uneventful pursuit of knowledge is all that college has to offer the “Barb” why does he not save time and money by staying home and taking correspondence work? Do the “Barbs” lack the initiative to organize? Are they incapable of uniting for the exercise of rights that are admittedly theirs? Why do they not either organize and assume their legitimate share of the administration of student affairs or forever resign themselves to being the puppets of a regime of high-handed caste domination?

Book Reviews

ALL KNEELING,
Ann Parrish,
Harpers, N. Y.

Christabel Caine is the nasty, beautiful little heroine of the book and around her all the world is kneeling. All the world, that is, but Uncle Johnnie and the person who happens to be reading this book about her. Uncle Johnnie happens to be the only likeable person in the book. A few of the others are nice in spots but most of them, most of the time are hateful.

Judging from a distance the book undoubtedly succeeds. It works, probably as Ann Parrish intended it should, but it works to miserably well. As far as the reader is concerned, Christabel Caine is the most hateful, insipid, conical character that ever looked pretty and knew it. It is true that the book is well written and once started will usually be finished but the reader is worn out with fury at the other characters who allow themselves to be hoodwinked by the flagrant conceit of Caine, and Mohammedanism.

the university does not actually want to turn out a lot of unintelligible chemical giants.

One’s equipment for life should include a liberal education; and although many surmount it, such an education is actually the passing of one of life’s hurdles — it gives confidence for the rest.

The old educators had the correct idea when they took for a motto “Knowledge is Power.” It took them through spelling bees akin to the modern dancing marathons, but it also kept before them the clobbered steps to ultimate success.

Many of us are probably carrying a course which in our kinder moments we call “a lot of bunk,” but if we would only pause to consider Roger Bacon’s maxim, we will approach such a course in a manner that will enable the course to do a great deal more for us than it ordinarily would.—McGill Daily.

Think.

GOVERNOR ALVIN T. FULLER, in a recent speech, said: “Education is becoming widespread. A very heavy responsibility rests upon the individual in every self-governing modern state. He owes it to himself to take every advantage of these educational opportunities, whether for youth or for adults which his community offers, to inform himself candidly and as thoroughly as may be upon those questions which require an immediate answer, and to hold himself free from bigotry, intolerance, and lust for persecution, which unhappily still linger.”

Entirely too many of us are content to accept the ideas and opinions of others, never stopping to think for ourselves, and having thought, making our own decision. It is so much easier and less tiring to accept the other fellow’s idea of the thing, and drift along with the stream. Education is a process of teaching the individual to think. It is a pity that it cannot be carried out to the extent that the individual learns to think for himself.—Purdue Univ. Exponent.

the leading lady. It is not pleasant to read more and more about a beautiful nitwit whom one despises. It is even worse to see characters otherwise nice make tools and fools of themselves to please the vanity and feed the self-pity of the lady.

The book ends on a rising note, which seems to be the fashion in endings this season. Vistas of more Christabels stretch on through the back cover but one is not tempted to follow them out in thought. Perhaps the trouble is that the book touches too close home in the inner conceit. Don’t read it; but if you do, and you probably will, don’t say you weren’t warned.—R. S.

MISPLACED LINGERIE.

Each week I send my laundry to a laundress for to clean. She brings it back all shiny, new And sends a bill, I mean!

But, Woodie, I’ve encountered now A problem sore to me; My laundress sent me back, I vow, What isn’t mine, you see.

Within my bundle when I stared, I looked at something satiny. I started, shrank, and even glared— It was a piece of lingerie!

There it lay, a pinkish dot, Crinkled, laced, and billowy— Gosh, Wooden Indian, I ask you what Can I do with lingerie?

H. L. G.

Do not become indignant, Nor very greatly harried; The only thing for you to do, My boy, is just—get married.

Write a letter to the laundry And thank them in words pensive, For you’ll find in later years, H. G., Lingerie is cheap expensive.

Poetically yours,
The Wooden Indian.

Rappa Rappa Damma: “Is that new boy friend of yours fast?”
Helpa Helpa Helpa: “Fast? Say! He’s so fast he’s got spring fever already.”

Dear Wooden Indian:
In the past I have noted that you never say anything but “Heap.” Don’t you ever say Ugh? Or “How?”

Z. Z. Z.

“Ugh! Heap yes, and How!”

From the Medicine Man—There is nothing so good for Flu as hot toddies.

WHAT A VIAL PUN.

Dear Indian:
Saw a sign down in Woolworth’s the other day:
PERFUME VIAL 10c

I walked by, took one whiff, and decided that the second word was misspelled.

Yours for better spelling,
H. L. G.

Your criticism is well taken.

This is an exclusive photo of a recent raid conducted as a result of crusade work done through the efforts of “The Curse of Rum.”

Dear Indian:
I successfully devined the reason for your smile. It is because tomorrow is the day of the Hell Box, the Press Club’s mammoth carnival.—You know it is—the happy anticipation of The Curse of Rum—The Frosh baby show, the Museum of freaks, the crazy house, the fish pond, the housie game, The other big attractions, not to mention the swell dance music the Press Club has engaged for the dance— Ah! all this and more, and then people ask “Why the smile?”

You may send the medallion (suitably engraved) to my home address Box 00 RFD Butte Montana.

Hush! Those cute little folk dances taught to frosh strong arm classes will feature HI-JINX—And we were under the impression that the men were to be razed this year.

The Indian has had the unusual privilege of previewing “The Curse of Rum” (a moral play in two acts). “This is the most touching bit of dramatic acting ever to come under my observation” said the Indian at the conclusion of the performance “And I urge every one to see, if possible, this great lesson.”

The fact that the play is being presented with THE ORIGINAL CAST should mean a great deal to lovers of the drammer.

Mr. McMurray Waxes Poetic over Tobacco

Carrollton, Texa May 15, 1928

Larus & Bro. Co., Richmond, Va. Gentlemen:

Having been a user of Edgeworth for over eight years, I can truthfully say that it is the best on earth. I am enclosing a little ditty that I believe expresses my sentiments entirely:

Old Man Joy and Old Man Trouble Went out for a walk one day. I happened to pass when they met on the street

And I overheard them say,
Said Old Man Trouble, “She’s as wrong as she can be,
There ain’t no fun in anything to me, why I was just talking’ to Old Man Sorrow,
And he says the world will end tomorrow.”

Then Old Man Joy he started to grin,
And I saw him bring out that OLD BLUE TIN,
Then OLD JOHNNY BRIAR was next on the scene,
And he packed him full from the OLD BLUE TIN,
And I heard him say as he walked away,
“You have to have a smoke screen every day.
When a man gets the blues, and he needs a friend,
He can find consolation in the OLD BLUE TIN,
And I jist don’t believe on all this earth
There’s a thing that’ll match good old EDGEWORTH.”

Yours very truly,
F. H. McMurray

FORMER 'U' STUDENT WRITES BIGGEST NEWS STORY OF YEAR

Percy Stone Receives
Praise for Vestris
Writeup.

Percy N. Stone, former student of the University of Montana, has received commendation through his account of the recent Vestris steamship disaster, accorded by newspaper men as the greatest thriller news story of the year, published in the New York Herald Tribune. Stone, who is ship's news editor of the Tribune, issued fourteen pages on the Vestris disaster, including a page of photos, Nov. 15.

Stone was a member of the class of 1916 here, but did not graduate, spending the winter of that year working on the Butte Miner. At that time, he entered the war service with several newspaper associates, received a second lieutenant's commission in the air service, and was on his way across the Atlantic when the Armistice was signed. He returned and went to work on the New York Evening Post, later going into free lance work, and then getting on the Herald Tribune, where he has been for the past six years.

Besides being ship's news editor, he does Sunday work in dramatics. He has done a great deal of conspicuous work in the ship's news line. He first broke into prominence with his story of the rescue of the Italian seamen by the crew of the Harding in 1925, receiving many comments in letters sent to the Herald Tribune. Many of the letters came from directors of life saving work, seamen, and men versed in sea lore.

Margaret Garvin Stone, wife of Percy Stone, is assistant fashion editor of Good Housekeeping magazine. She graduated from here in 1918, and her sister, Dorothea Garvin, is now going to school here.

Other Students.

Among other alumni and former students of the Montana Journalism school who have recently been heard from, is Richard F. (Dick) Crandell, ex-'25, and Kaimin editor for the fall and winter quarters, '24-'25, who has recently been appointed assistant city editor of the New York Herald Tribune. He left the University in March and wrote special articles until June, 1925, when he joined the staff of the White Plains Daily Reporter at White Plains, N. Y. Besides writing editorials and special stories for the Daily Reporter, he conducted a column daily for the Westchester County Reporter. In June, 1926, he joined the staff of the New York Herald Tribune, and worked for three months on the Hall-Mills case. He was made special staff correspondent for the Herald Tribune in Westchester county, N. Y., in March, 1927, and was later put on the day and night re-write staff and the daily staff of the same paper. During last summer, Crandell was acting assistant city editor of the Tribune. He is a monthly contributor to the "American Press," a trade paper, with articles on newspaper men and advertising.

Lloyd S. Thompson, ex-'23, was for a time reporter and copyreader on different newspapers in San Francisco. About a year ago he was sent to New York on a transfer in the Hearst organization, and is re-write man on the New York American, as well as assistant theatrical critic.

To equalize the number of men and women at Northwestern University, entrance requirements for freshman women were made unusually strict.

EDUCATIONAL EXPERIMENTS.
Interesting educational experiments are being carried on at George Washington University by Dr. Lowell J. Ragnatz, which may eventually change teaching and grading methods to a significant degree.

Using several groups of unsmiling students as his subjects, Dr. Ragnatz separated them into groups according to their mental abilities, and made deductions from the results.

Students surrounded by those of their own mental status, he found, struggle instinctively to keep up to the group standard, and recite without hesitancy. But in a mixed group of lesser attainments are afraid to speak up and withhold their best efforts from fear of derision.

LONG FIGHT ENDS.

Culminating a long fight between two ardent factions as to when the University of Michigan was founded, one supporting the date of 1837, and the other of 1817, the State Supreme Court has supported the former, and from now on the University will have to use 1837 on its official seal.

SPEECH CLINIC.

A clinic for the betterment of speech is being conducted by the public speaking department of the Oregon State College. The clinic, one of the two in the West, is free of charge to students and others in the state of Oregon who wish to take advantage of speech correction.

DIME CRAWL.

University of Oregon co-eds met with success in the first Dime Crawl held this year. The receipts of the Crawl, a benefit dance staged several times a year by the Women's League, brought in two hundred dollars, all in dimes. The money was added to the foreign scholarship fund.

CO-EDS MODEST.

Modern flappers with their short skirts, bobbed hair and stockingless legs are no less modest than the more abundantly garbed damsel of a generation ago, according to Dr. Edith Bryan of the hygiene department of the University of California. "The girl who grows up accustomed to short dresses is not immodest when she continues to wear them. She is used to them," said Dr. Bryan.

UNKNOWN LAND EXPLORED.

Osh, Pamir Mountains.—(IP)—The last spot of unknown land on the maps of Russia, the "roof of the world" in the Pamir Mountains, has now been explored and charted.

A joint German-Russian expedition recently returned from the Pamir highlands and announced the discovery of heretofore unknown rivers, peaks and glaciers. One glacier, the expedition reported, stretched 70 miles north and south, and is said to be the second largest in the world.

Injured.

Major Milburn, manager Jerry Dahl and 24 members of the Grizzly football squad left yesterday on the North Coast Limited for Eugene, Oregon where they will meet the powerful Oregon Webfoots Saturday afternoon.

Several men are on the injured list as a result of the Idaho Homecoming game. Reid Harman and Tom Moore are bothered with bad knees. Kermit Ekegren was left home suffering from injuries received in the Vandal game.

Major Milburn expects to meet a winning team at Oregon. Captain McEwan this year has developed one of the most powerful squads in the conference. He has a big powerful line and a fine backfield featuring Johnny Kitzmiller, hailed as the Flying Dutchman.

Twenty-four men made the trip. Harman, Davis, Rnogli, and Clark, ends; tackles include Peterson, Walker, Spenser, and Lyon; Murray, Mulick, Foss, and Schotte; guards; Lewis, and Ryan, centers; are the line men who will invade the Oregon campus. Captain Eddie Chinske and Tom Moore quarterback; Waldo Ekegren, Morrow, Carpenter and Callison halfbacks; Mellinger and Parmelee, fullbacks; comprise the backfield.

Major Milburn expects to start Harman and Davis at end, Peterson and Walker, tackles; Murray and Mulick, guards, Lewis, center; Chinske, quarterback; Mellinger, fullback; and Morrow and W. Ekegren, halfbacks.

It has been reported that Oregon expects to give the Grizzly a trouncing. In speaking of the game; Major Milburn stated: "It will be a very close battle or a walkaway for Oregon. We hope to stop their plays as long as our regulars keep in the game, but Oregon has a winning team, a winning spirit, and a wonderful line."

OREGON READY AND WAITING FOR INVASION OF MONTANA GRIZZLIES

Captain McEwan Builds Offensive Around Kitzmiller.

Fresh from its 12-0 surprise victory over her traditional rivals, the Oregon State Beavers, Captain John J. McEwan's University of Oregon team anticipates the coming of the Montana Grizzlies. Major Frank B. Milburn and his team will arrive in Eugene Friday for Montana's last conference game of the season the day following.

Oregon has had a spotted season, winning from Washington University and Oregon State while losing to California and Stanford. With the exception of the Washington game all the others have been hard fought struggles. The two California schools were able to win only by a margin of two touchdowns in each case. A non-conference game with Pacific was won easily.

Not Team of Giants.
For the first time in many weeks Milburn's men will not be playing a team made up entirely of giants, although Stadlerman, center, and Christensen, tackle, both top the 200 pound mark. The stars of the backfield are Johnny Kitzmiller, the "Flying Dutchman," and George Burnell, known as the "Speed Boy". Kitzmiller is playing his first year of conference football and has proved a sensation in every game played to date. The boy is an ardent admirer of Horace Greeley for he received his prep training in an Eastern school. Williams and Gould, the latter at fullback, will make up the starting backfield. Kitzmiller pilots the team from the quarterback position.

With the giant Stadlerman at center the Oregon line is one of the toughest on the coast. Hagen and Shields appear at the guard positions with Christensen and Colbert

Following are the members of the team and the scores turned in after the first practice:

- John Fallman—98.
- Joe Grove—98.

at the tackle positions. Archer and Pope will appear at the flank positions at the opening kickoff.

Strong Offense.

McEwan has built his offense around Kitzmiller and Burnell. Either one of the duo is a wonder in the open field and likely to break away at any time for a touchdown. Gould is a powerful line plunger who is capable of substantial gains with the aid of his strong line. Williams, at the other half, is used almost entirely as a blocker and is also a star defensive man. Oregon will probably employ an open attack from the beginning of play, granting that the field is dry.

Oregon University has one more game to play after the Montana combat, that with University of California L. A. at Los Angeles.

WORKOUTS HELD FOR HOOP MEN

Class Games Scheduled For Next Month. Favor Juniors.

Basketball is progressing slowly with three practices each week. Coach Jim Stewart is putting his men through the fundamentals with the object of developing ability to shoot, pivot, pass, and use other essentials of the court game. Practices will be limited to these workouts until after the finish of the football season, when the rest of the squad will be available. At present Eddie Chinske, "Feet" Lewis and Ted Rule of last year's varsity, and Clyde Carpenter and Ray Lyon of the 1928 Cub team are with the Varsity gridiron squad but will report immediately after the completion of the season.

Class games will be run off during the first week of December. The juniors, who won the pennant as second year men, are favored to win with Rankin, Kilroy, Doherty, Lewis and other veterans as a nucleus around which to build a team. Men will play according to their classification at the registrar's office.

Co-eds at the University of Sidney (Australia) are practically exiles. They are separated from the men in class rooms, paid no attention by men on the campus.

MRS. H. G. MERRIAM EXPLAINS ETCHINGS TO ART STUDENTS

"Etchings Should Not Be Colored," Says Speaker.

Mrs. H. G. Merriam spoke to the Art students and townspeople yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the study rooms of the University Art department in Main hall.

The 50 etchings from the Macbeth Art Galleries of New York City formed the subject of the talk given by Mrs. Merriam. She gave the early process and history of etchings, starting with the time of the early goldsmith workers to that of Van Ryan Rambrandt, which is, without doubt, the world's greatest master in this line, and Whistler, who is probably the greatest in America.

"Etching," said Mrs. Merriam, "should not be copied. A good deal should be left to the imagination." Mrs. Merriam stated, too, that etchings should not be colored as this gives them the appearance of water color drawings. The different types of etchings were contrasted by Mrs. Merriam, and she told of the ways in which they are made with and without acids.

An echo that circles the globe

Sightseers returning from the Alps never fail to babble of the marvelous echoes that reverberate so obligingly from peak to peak.

But no such phenomenon matches a certain echo that keeps circling this whole mundane sphere. It is the best-known cigarette slogan ever coined—the Chesterfield phrase "They Satisfy."

Originated to describe a unique coupling of qualities seemingly opposed—"they're mild, and yet they satisfy"—its descriptive accuracy was instantly perceived. Today it echoes and re-echoes wherever cigarettes are smoked:

"Satisfacen...ils satisfont...THEY SATISFY!"

And rightly enough, for Chesterfields are mild—and they DO satisfy...and what more can any cigarette offer?
